U.N. Delegates Squabble Over Middle East

Many Accusations Fly As Withdrawal Of Israel Is Debated

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Weary U. N. delegates headed home today for a Christmas recess after arguing into the night on troubles in the Middle East and other unfinished business.

The latest round on the Middle East ended on an uncertain note when Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold announced that Israel planned a partial withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula by Jan. 10, but that he could not say when all Israeli forces would be out of the area.

Hammarskjold spoke in reply to demands by Jordan and other Arab delegates as to how fast the Israelis were pulling out.

France Blasts Egypt
The Middle East dispute was revived when France brought fresh charges before the General Assembly that Egypt had mistreated and deported her nationals.

The Arabs quickly launched a full dress debate on the whole Middle Eastern situation. Hammarskjold and the United States had tried all week to head off the squabble.

Israel's Abba Eban added to the dispute by accusing Egypt of deporting Jews of various citizenship.

A parade of Arab speakers accused Britain and France of "collusion" with Israel in the invasion of Egypt.

Charge Genocide
Jordan charged the Israelis had perpetrated the "ugliest crime of genocide" during the attack on Egypt, and called on Hammarskjold to report as soon as possible on how far Israel has pulled back toward the 1949 armistice lines.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov jumped into the squabble, declaring the "three aggressors" were conducting a slander campaign the Assembly should reject.

Commander of Malmedy Massacre Of U.S. Troops Freed From Prison

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—Col. Joachim Peiper, once sentenced to die for his role in the Malmedy Massacre of American troops in 1944, was freed today from Landsberg Prison. The U. S. Army announced his release.

Peiper was in direct command of troops of the 6th SS Panzer Division which machinegunned 142 Americans captured during the final German offensive in World War II—the Christmas time Battle of the Bulge.

Rumors of his impending release from Landsberg a year ago drew bitter protest from Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the Democratic vice presidential nominee this year. Kefauver said he had been a member of a senate unit which concluded after an investigation that "Peiper and his group were the worst kind of sadistic murderers."

An announcement by headquarters of the U. S. Army in Europe said Peiper's release was mandatory under a unanimous recommendation of the six-member parole and clemency board, composed of one representative each from England, France and the United States, and three from West Germany.

Peiper was sentenced to hang for his role in the Malmedy Massacre by a war crimes trial on July 16, 1946. This sentence was reduced later to 35 years imprisonment.

The commander of the 6th SS Panzer unit was Col. Gen. Sepp Dietrich, who was released from Landsberg in October 1955, over the vigorous protests of U. S. veterans' organizations. Peiper was in field command.

The destruction of the 142 Americans occurred at the tiny Malmedy crossroads in Belgium at the height of the Battle of the Bulge. According to testimony at the trials of Dietrich and Peiper, the American troops were lined up at the crossroads and mowed down on machinegun fire.

There was no advance notice that Peiper was to be released, and it was impossible to learn where he went on his departure.

Millions Begin Christmas Trips; Weather Poor

Safety Experts See New All-Time High For Road Accidents

By The Associated Press
The nation's toll of accident deaths climbed today as millions of Americans took to the highways in a Christmas travel rush amid hazardous driving conditions.

At least 63 persons were killed in traffic by mid-morning in a tally that began at 6 p. m. Friday. Other types of accident fatalities numbered 6—of which 4 were fire deaths.

Safety experts estimated that the four-day holiday, ending at midnight Tuesday, would see a new all-time traffic death record, surpassing that of 609 set during last year's 3-day Christmas period.

Many of those killed on streets and highways during the early hours of the weekend were victims of poor visibility resulting from heavy fog in the nation's eastern half, made worse in some areas by drizzle which coated windshields.

Cancellation and delays in air travel increase the number of passengers on trains and also resulted in many persons using automobiles to travel.

The National Safety Council estimated that 45 million cars would be on the streets and roads during the extended holiday. It said in addition to the fog, other travel dangers included the usual unpredictable winter driving conditions, a minimum of daylight and holiday drinking.

660 Deaths Predicated
The council has estimated 660 traffic deaths for the Christmas holiday period, which would be an all time record for any holiday. The record was set last Christmas when 609 lives were lost in traffic accidents in a three-day holiday weekend.

The council's estimate of 660 deaths compares with a figure of 500 for a four-day non-holiday test period, from 6 p. m. local time Friday, Dec. 14 to midnight Tuesday, Dec. 18. In addition, there were 27 deaths from fires and 60 from miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 587 for the test period.

The death count by states, from accidents:

Otto John Given 4 Years In Jail

Convicted Of Treason While In E. Germany

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—Otto John, former West German intelligence chief, was sentenced to four years in prison today for treasonable relations with the Communists during his 17-month stay behind the Iron Curtain.

The sentence was announced by the Federal Supreme Court after a six-week trial.

Seventy witnesses were heard in the trial that climaxed West Germany's most spectacular cold war scandal. John claimed repeatedly that he was drugged and taken across the border into East Berlin on July 20, 1954.

The prosecution had asked a jail term of not more than two years. The 12-month period John spent in pre-trial custody was ordered deducted from the sentence by the five-man Supreme Court.

Trial costs, estimated at $10,000, must be borne by John.

Charged With Treason
John, 47, returned from Communist East Germany in December 1955. He was charged with treasonable relations with the East, revealing official West German secrets to the Communists and making anti-West propaganda while in East Germany.

Several witnesses testifying for the defense described what they described as plans in the intelligence office under which persons in Communist hands would pretend to go along with the Reds in order to prevent being brainwashed. John told the court that was what he did and claimed none of the things he told the Communist involved state secrets.

Said He Went Voluntarily
Other witnesses testified that

Hoover, Syrian Envoy Dispute What Was Said On Oil Lines

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. and Syria's ambassador were involved in a dispute today over whether the Syrians have agreed to allow repair of a sabotage oil pipeline. Ambassador Farid Zeineddine insists he told Hoover Friday night no repairs would be permitted until Britain.

But Hoover, through a spokesman, is just as insistent that Zeineddine assured him there was "no obstacle" to beginning repairs that would permit resumption of the flow of Middle East oil, much needed in Western Europe and elsewhere.

Two Diplomats Met
The dispute grew out of a meeting between the two diplomats in Hoover's State Department office.

In the wake of the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt nearly two months ago, the Suez Canal was blocked by sunken vessels. At the same time, saboteurs crippled four pumping stations on a 600-mile pipeline which carried oil from the Iraq petroleum fields, across Syria, to the Mediterranean.

As a result, Britain, France and other countries of western Europe have been hard-hit by an oil famine. The United States has been trying to get Syria to allow repairs to the damaged pipeline which normally carries 550,000 barrels of oil a day.

Grants Britain Credit
Friday it was announced that the United States had granted Britain a half billion dollar emergency credit through the Export-Import Bank to help pay for U. S. oil being shipped to West Europe.

When Zeineddine left Hoover's office, he told newsmen he had in fact formed Hoover:

"There is no doubt in my mind that the withdrawal of Israel is the most urgent matter as well as the completion of the withdrawal by Britain and France. It is essential to frustrate any effort at the recurrence or the resumption of hostilities in the area."

"The flow of blood is far more important than the flow of oil."

But Hoover's spokesman, press officer Lincoln White, told reporters:

"Ambassador Zeineddine... (said) he had word from his government making it clear that there would be no obstacle. He understood that pipeline representatives were coming in to undertake repairs."

Zeineddine and Hoover also were in dispute over whether the question of troop withdrawals was mentioned.

Intruder Gets $111 In Burglary Here

A burglar entered the home of Harry C. Snyder of 1006 Buckeye Ave. Friday night between 7:15 and 10 and escaped with $111 and several articles of jewelry, police reported.

The intruder evidently was the same person who ransacked the home of Charles Baker of 378 Jennings Ave. Thursday night.

Police said the burglar gained entry by breaking a rear cellar window and unlocking it by reaching through the opening.

After crawling through the aperture the intruder went upstairs and searched the dressers in the bedrooms. Snyder told police. He said the burglar stole a billfold containing $90 from his room and a billfold containing $15 from the room of his son, Bruce.

The burglar also stole two sets of earrings and two necklaces from the dresser in another bedroom.

Six dollars in change used to pay minor household bills was taken from the kitchen. Police said a pocketknife stolen from Baker's home was left on a bedroom dresser by the burglar.

The intruder went out by way of the kitchen door.

The Snyders were attending a program at the Methodist Church at the time.

Officers Rule In Sumatra

Coup Follows Many Months Of Unrest

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—A clique of army officers has seized control of central Sumatra, second largest island in the Indonesian republic, government officials here announced. The seizure climaxed months of economic crisis and mounting army unrest.

A broadcast over the Sumatra radio said the army group staged the coup Friday night and would return power to the Indonesian government "when the people's demand for economic improvements are met."

Col. Simbolon, 37-year-old army commander in north and central Sumatra, today proclaimed himself head of both civilian and military authority in that area. He said he took the step in the interest of the Indonesian people. He declared he no longer recognized the central government's cabinet but did not intend to set up a new state.

The central government here announced it would send a delegation to Sumatra to contact "people there." It made no other comment on the move by the army group. There were no reports indicating the coup was spreading to other points in the Indonesian archipelago.

There are 500 Americans and Sumatra, but there were no indications any of them were affected by the power switch.

Communications between Sumatra and Jakarta, the country's capital on Java, and the outside world were severely restricted. The head of Jakarta's cable and wireless company said the army had delayed all out-bound cables from Jakarta under strict censorship.

There were no reports of any clashes. One report said the formal takeover of power was without incident.

The handover ceremony was attended by a large crowd, the Sumatra radio broadcast said. The

McDonald Faces USW Opposition

Rarick Nominated For Presidency

PITTSBURGH (AP)—President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers will be opposed by Donald C. Rarick of suburban McKeesport when McDonald seeks re-election Feb. 12, the union announced today.

Rarick is head of the so-called "Dues Protest Committee" that has been fighting a recent $2-a-month increase in union dues.

It will be the first time in the 20-year history of the 1,250,000-member union that there has been a contest for the $50,000 a year post.

Needed 40 Nominations
In order to be placed on the ballot, a candidate must be nominated by 40 of the union's 2,700 locals in the United States and Canada.

The Steelworkers reported that Rarick was nominated by 91 locals and McDonald by 1,905. The tally of the nominations was completed just Friday night by the union's board of tellers.

The dues protest group also was successful in getting candidates on the ballot for secretary-treasurer, vice president and district director.

William A. Klug of Milwaukee was nominated by 66 locals to oppose Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel who received nominations from 1,951 locals.

Eisenhower has promised Australian Chancellor Julius Raab the United States will do everything in its power to help solve the problem created by the movement of refugees in Austria. A high official source said Wednesday Nixon believes the United States should admit more than the 21,500 it has agreed to receive.

Home Via Iceland
The vice president is flying home via Iceland, where the big U. S. air base was a recent political issue.

Iceland recently reversed its demand that U. S. troops be withdrawn from the island. Washington made it clear the Reykjavik government changed its mind after the Soviets smashed the Hungarian revolt.

Nixon winds up his fact finding tour of Hungarian refugee camps with a visit to several camps today in the Salzburg area and across the border in West Germany.

Visited Refugee Camps
Nixon today pledged American help for refugees who fled East European Communist countries prior to the Hungarian revolt. He made the promise on a visit to the Glashenbach refugee camp five miles south of Salzburg.

The 600 Glashenbach refugees have been there three to five months. Austrian officials estimated there are 30,000 more of such refugees in other camps in the country.

Taking off from Munich Sunday morning in a big Air Force Super Constellation, Nixon is expected to land at Refajvik Airport in Iceland that afternoon. He'll return to Washington Monday morning.

Two Drivers Cited After Road Mishaps

Two drivers were arrested following two traffic mishaps which occurred on district roads Friday night.

The driver was cited for driving left of center.

An auto driven by John Gilson, 41, of East Liverpool struck the rear of a car operated by Ambrose Palmer, 40, of Leetonia at 10:10 p. m. on Rt. 30, five miles south of Lisbon, as Palmer slowed down for traffic ahead.

Gilson was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 20:29b — "Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe." (RSV)

Jesus is speaking to Thomas, who demanded to place his fingers in the wounds of his Risen Lord and, upon doing so, uttered a declaration of his belief. The disciple was very human in his inability to credit something so marvelous without satisfying his own understanding through the physical senses. "Seeing is believing" is the basis many folks go on. But what vast worlds are closed to us when we can go no further than that! "Blessed are those who have seen not, yet believe!"

I do not understand electricity or television or a gas combustion engine or the law of gravity or the intricacies of body chemistry, but I turn on the buttons and drive the car and walk confidently down the street and eat three meals a day. We all live constantly in terms of the intimate use of things we cannot understand, or see. I believe in these things as instruments of my personal well-being. Would it not be strangely stupid of me to refuse to believe in, and apply to my life, the power of the Living Saviour and of prayer and of a certainty of the daily presence of God's Holy Spirit? "Blessed are those who have not seen, yet believe!"

Jesus is nineteen centuries away from us in terms of "seeing." Thanks be to God for all who have never seen Him, yet believe in Him! Let me be a humble member of that vast company of the blest whose faith far transcends the limits of the physical senses!

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How The Glad Tidings Came

Among the hills of far-off Palestine, almost 2,000 years ago, shepherds grazed their flocks, just as they do today. In that land, the chill air of winter night contrasts sharply with the heat of the day. Even now, on the hills at night, you can see campfires built by the shepherds twinkling like stars against the countryside.

Peale

The shepherds had no fear of wolves or thieves, for their dogs—large, vicious and well-trained—would stand guard against intruders.

So they held their hands above the coals to warm them, and laughed and joked and told tall tales, as men do on such occasions. They were absorbed in their evening's entertainment and hardly noticed the strange pair of dogs that joined their circle above the fire. Then, the conversation suddenly stopped for, in surprise, they noticed that a stranger had joined their circle. The surprise quickly turned to anger. Why had the dogs not barked and set upon the intruder?

They grew even more indignant as they noticed one of the dogs standing by the stranger as though to guard him from them!

"PLEASE," THE STRANGER spoke, "I mean no harm. Nearby, in the little town of Bethlehem, lies my wife, in a stable, with a newborn babe. The night is cold and the babe shivers. I saw your fire on the hill and thought I might beg a few coals. Do not blame your dogs—I seem to have a way with animals."

The shepherds were kindly men; they had babes of their own at home. They could easily spare a few coals and said so. "But you have no pail in which to carry them." The stranger waved their protests aside. With one hand, he held up an edge of the heavy blue cloak he wore; with the other, he fearlessly reached into the fire, picked up some blazing coals and placed them in the cloak. Then with a gesture of thanks, he turned and walked away.

THE SHEPHERDS WATCHED in amazement. He had not cried out when he touched the hot coals and the cloak did not catch fire! One shook his head sadly and tapped his temple. "Poor madman," another said. And they resumed their conversation.

They had talked for only a short time when their fire suddenly seemed to glow more brightly. They looked up and saw that the sky was alive with stars. And one bright particular star shot down toward them and the light around them was such that they could not even see their own little fire.

Afraid, they huddled together for self-protection. Then a voice came out of the star and it said: "Fear not; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

THEN ALL THE OTHER STARS seemed to come down from the sky and hover about them and there were voices singing: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." As the voices died away, so did the brightness, and soon, just as if these strange events had never happened, it was dark again and there was only the light of their own small fire.

Now even the shepherds knew that Bethlehem was the city of David. And they could not disobey the message that had come to them from the heavens. So they left their dogs to tend the flocks, took up their long staves and set off up the road to Bethlehem.

IT WAS LATE and the town was asleep. All was dark. But a light flickered in the stable of the inn. They looked in the door and there, in the glow of a little fire of a few small coals lay a mother. Nearby, in a manger, slept a beautiful Child. And, over the manger, a man was spreading a heavy blue cloak with which to cover the Child.

The fire flared up for a moment and they recognized the stranger and knew that these coals were from their own fire. They stared at the cloak he was holding. It was neither burned nor scorched.

ed. Then they knew the meaning of the strange things they had seen that night. They knelt in reverence and then hurried away to spread the good news.

That is how one legend tells us the glad tidings came to the world. And each of us spreads these same glad tidings anew every time we say, "Merry Christmas." So may I say Merry Christmas to you and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Boy—I can hardly wait!

I've got my stocking hung by the chimney with plenty of care, and Christmas morning it'll be bursting full of all sorts of good things. There'll be a candy cane sticking out of the top ... there always is ... and a walnut stuffed way down in the tip of the toe.

And then ... the tree! I don't think there's a prettier sight on earth than a Christmas tree. And all those presents underneath it, wrapped up in bright colors and tied with ribbons.

Then Mom and Dad and my sister Ellen and I will get dressed, and we'll go to Church. That's one of the best parts of Christmas. For Mom and Dad always say that Christmas is the celebration of Christ's birthday. I love the music in our Church at Christmas—"Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and all the other carols. When I hear them, I feel all filled up with joy, and I know why our minister says that Christmas is the happiest day of the whole year.

Boy—I can hardly wait! And I just hope that your Christmas is going to be as merry as ours!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Chapter II Begins

Until the last Anglo-French invader had left, none of the great hopes of a new era in the Middle East could be justified.

Things the United Nations had been called for not doing could not even be attempted as long as the Egyptians were in a mood to massacre the withdrawing forces that had attacked them.

Tension will continue as long as there is bad blood between the Egyptians in Israel's, but it has been reduced now to a level where the possibilities of the new era can be appraised.

They all arise from the same basis of realism — the fact that oil and geography give the Middle East something of great value to the rest of the world, particularly Europe and the United States.

But Middle Easterners cannot use this value themselves. They need food more than petroleum. Their geography is important only if it is of benefit to others; they cannot exploit it themselves.

In the past, the exploitation was carried on chiefly by Britain and France. Lately, the United States has become a dominant exploiting power, but with a difference in attitude dramatized by its leadership in U.N. opposition to Franco-British invasion of Egypt to punish a political leader and capture the Suez Canal. Americans swore off gunboat diploma 30 years ago after using it to excess in Central America.

The United States is willing to deal with Middle Eastern governments as sovereign powers. It is willing to give Arabs as much credit for their good intentions and censure for their bad ones as it gives to Jews. It is willing to believe an Arabian can differ with Downing Street without being a puppet of the Kremlin. And it is unwilling to believe the discredited strong-arm policy of moribund European imperialism has any merit in the mid-20th century. It is ready to extend its "good-neighbor" policy to the Eastern Mediterranean and onward to Asia.

These are the terms on which understanding in the Middle East could be arrived at during the next few decades. Both the Soviet Union and the political leaders of the Arab world hold veto power. It takes more than one good neighbor to make a good neighborhood.

Chapter II of the newest book in the vast collection of life and strife in the Cradle of Civilization is beginning.

Able But Unwilling

Two experts had their heads together when Dwight Eisenhower and Bill O'Neill swapped ideas about government personnel.

The President and Ohio's governor-elect agreed that the trick was to get more young men interested in government. Actually, the trick is to get more qualified men interested — particularly young ones.

That is where Dwight Eisenhower and Bill O'Neill shine as experts.

The President, a qualified man, never showed the slightest interest in politics until he was past 60. Gov.-elect O'Neill, on the other hand, never showed interest in anything else. When he turns a tender 41 next Feb. 16 he will have been in politics upward of a quarter of a century, in the sense that politics has been his only interest.

How do qualified men, particularly young ones, become interested in government, to the extent of wanting to stand up in front of the crowd and take the beating that goes with the occasional cheers?

Why are so many able men unwilling to serve the public?

Who should know better what the secret is than Dwight Eisenhower and Bill O'Neill? What caused them to become interested?

Assessing Themselves

When United Steelworkers jumped dues from $2 to $5 and raised top salaries another $10,000, a year, rank-and-file opposition began to assert itself.

Even James Caesar Petrillo, the music dictator, now is getting his lumps. The Los Angeles local of the American Federation of Musicians, one of the key units, recently turned down Petrillo's state for a slate put up by an opposing group. Late in November, members of International Typographical Union turned down by referendum an increase of 50 cents in monthly per capita dues of $1 paid to international headquarters and rejected a rise in the special assessment for the union defense fund.

The human element in unionism is asserting itself strongly. A two-party system is beginning to develop.

It could not be otherwise in a country whose citizens are told from childhood that the two-party system is the bulwark of self-government — the only system based on the tendency in human nature to oppose whatever seems to be running away with its own power.

Religion In And On the Job

The Original Gift

By EUGENE CARR

There is one Christmas gift that is not for sale in the stores. It cannot be bought from a catalogue or a house-to-house salesman. In fact, it can't be bought.

It is the original Christmas gift, handed down that first Christmas nearly 2000 years ago, when God cut through the entanglements of a corrupt and resisting world and gave mankind hope and faith based on the promise of a personal relationship with Him.

This is the most priceless gift of Christmas. It is the foundation upon which rests freedom of the individual to think and act, to decide, to choose, to determine. Upon it hinges the qualities that distinguish man from all other living things, and dignity and set him apart as God's most important creation.

With it, man can be noble and just; he can be righteous and good; he can reach beyond the stars for a power and influence unknown on earth. Without it, he is dull, ordinary, impotent, and crude.

The original Christmas gift is still available to all who seek it. It is timeless and enduring. Its luster prevails. Its value has been enhanced by centuries of tested use. It has never failed him who has accepted it.

Like other Christmas gifts, however, it is of no worth to anyone who does not want it, does not appreciate it, does not apply it. It cannot add to the life and living of those who indifferently set it aside in the darkness of a cluttered and confused existence. It must be worn and used to benefit the recipient. It must be a welcome gift to satisfy Him who gives it and him who receives it.

The world has received many wonderful gifts from God — the beneficial rays of the sun, the revitalizing freshness of rain, the germinating sweep of the wind, earth given foods, protective forests, and fuels and fibre. But, none is so essential to man's well being as the original gift, the priceless gift of Christmas. For here is the one source of human love, security, and eternal hope.

Immigration Laws

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

Religious groups representing every Christian denomination are being joined by thousands of civic, business and other secular organizations across the country in a vast movement to achieve a more reverent observance of Christmas.

The approach varies from group to group and community to community. In the Milwaukee, area, where Catholic women under the auspices of the Archdiocesan Confraternity of Christian Mothers pioneered one phase of the movement in 1949, the rallying cry is "Put Christ Back into Christmas." In New York, Boston, Dayton and some other sections, it is: "Keep Christ in Christmas."

"There is perhaps no feast in the Christian calendar that evokes such piety, reverence and enthusiasm as Christmas," says Mrs. Donald A. Clark, chairman of the Milwaukee committee. "However, we must face the harsh facts that this sacred day has been secularized, merchandised and humanized to the point where in some instances the birthday of the Holy Infant is overlooked."

PARADOXICALLY, all the promotional tools used in commerce — newspaper advertising and publicity, billboards, car cards, window displays, auto bumper stickers, throwaways, Christmas tree tags, radio and television — are being employed to spark America's spiritual reawakening.

Dayton's city wide Keep-Christ-in-Christmas campaign appears typical of the cooperative spirit prevailing in many communities.

Nativity scenes have been erected in three sections of the city, caroling on the courthouse lawn is a twice-weekly feature, prayer cards have been placed in all restaurants, the best Christmas displays built around religious settings are awarded prizes.

Bostonians put up a Christmas creche, illuminated by 10,000 electric bulbs, on Boston Common, where there is also a white chapel, complete with organ, in which groups from Catholic and Protestant churches, colleges and schools give concerts twice daily.

Political Factors

Those who are still trying to puzzle out the currents and cross-currents of the 1956 presidential election will get no rest in the campaigns ahead. Population changes promise new line-ups that may again alter the national outlook substantially.

For example, under the law, the 1960 census figures must be translated into more seats in Congress for some states, fewer for others. Present indications are that California, growing apace as usual, may be so bulging with people that it will pick up perhaps seven new seats for a total of 37. Florida and Texas, other meccas for migrating Americans, are bound to gain materially, too.

Since the grand total is held at 435, these gains mean that other states must lose. New York, for all its size and its probable population advances, will be moving ahead at a slower percentage pace than the big magnet states. Consequently it may drop two or three of its present 43 seats.

The "status quo" is getting to be a pretty elusive thing in American politics. Movement is so continuous that the dust never seems to settle.

Thoughts

And them that worship the host of heaven upon the house tops; and them that worship and that swear by the Lord, and that swear by Malcham. — Zephaniah 1:5.

Remember that God will not be mocked; that it is the heart of the worshiper which He regards. We are never safe till we love Him with our whole heart whom we pretend to worship. — Bishop Henshaw.

The Los Angeles metropolitan area has more automobiles per capita than any other such area, the average being five cars for every four families.

In Davenport the Christmas-Is-Christ's-Birthday Committee sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce is distributing seven-piece, build-it-yourself nativity scenes, in full color, in which the figures are two-thirds life size.

IN SANTA MONIC, the Wilcox Group Players scheduled 12 performances of the lovely "The Nativity Story," and in Palisades Park, rising high above the Pacific, 15 gigantic tableaux are lighted nightly to remind passers-by of the significance of Christmas.

Junior Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, acting upon suggestions originating in national headquarters in Tulsa, are encouraging store window displays and residential decorations emphasizing religious themes. These efforts have been singularly successful on the west coast, particularly in Washington and Oregon.

No effort, however large or small, is being spared by those who feel, in the words of the Rev. Berlyn V. Farris of the National Council of Churches, that "There is a need to rediscover the meaning of Christmas as recorded in the story of the birth of Christ."

It may be a small effort like that of the woman who pleaded in a letter to the editor of her hometown newspaper: "Please don't use the contraction 'mas.' That crosses Christ out of Christmas—and it was his birth that gave us this happy holiday."

OR IT MAY BE a big one like that of the Rev. Jesse M. Bader of the World Convention of Churches of Christ (Disciples), who leading through a Christmas cards display six years ago, discovered one depicting a rat gnawing an ear of corn.

He expressed his shock to the greeting card association, a trade group representing the publishers of 75 to 80 per cent of all the greeting cards produced in this country and promised that if its members published more religious cards he would urge the churches to buy them.

At that time, "less than 5 per cent of all Christmas cards delineated the religious significance of Christmas," S. Q. Shannon, executive director of the association, conceded. "This year, however, nearly 25 per cent are religious in character."

"What has taken place," the Rev. Mr. Bader said enthusiastically, "is simply amazing. Millions of people who had been neglectful in the past are sending out Christmas cards this year to give witness to their Christian faith."

Dulles: A Realistic Diplomat

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The United States does not intend to take chances with the Soviet Union. There will be no withdrawal of troops from Europe or

David Lawrence, the United States does not intend to take chances with the Soviet Union. There will be no withdrawal of troops from Europe or

These points are merely common sense but so often rumors and reports are circulated and given emphasis in news dispatches or articles here and abroad that it becomes necessary for the secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, to reiterate specifically the nature of America's plans with respect to the maintenance of effective armament to keep the peace.

While Mr. Dulles was attending the meetings in Paris of the North Atlantic Treaty Council, various reports were current in Washington and elsewhere giving the impression that some sort of "deal" was being cooked up by America with Moscow.

In fact, from London came dispatches saying British members of Parliament and other "spokesmen" were worried about these reported plans for "disarmament" which, it was being said, were about to be conveyed to the Soviet government.

MR. DULLES cannot carry on conferences abroad and explain to the press at the same time every detail of his discussions. But when he gets back here, he usually calls a press conference and talks frankly and in detail.

The press conference he held this week was a model of clarity and comprehensiveness. Not since the days when Charles Evans Hughes was secretary of state and day in and day out gave the press a clear-cut summary of what he was doing in foreign negotiations, has there been such a masterful presentation as Mr. Dulles gave the newsmen on Tuesday.

The secretary of state is able to deal so effectively with these complicated subjects primarily because he knows them thoroughly. He has had a larger experience with the various fine points of international relations than any other man in public life today.

Mr. Dulles, in his latest analysis, has upset a number of fancy theories as to what American policy is supposed to have been or ought to be.

HE HAS NOCKED in the head the idea that the United States is ready to negotiate for the withdrawal of Allied troops from West Germany and Europe generally if the Soviets would agree to withdraw their troops from the satellite states.

The basic fact to be borne in mind is that there is a closely knit alliance, known as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and that practical, alert-minded, vigilant military men are back of it. They are not naive persons who accept disarmament the moment somebody in Moscow applauds the idea and writes a note about it.

What sometimes confuses the picture is the talk about reducing troops in certain areas due to budget problems.

Undoubtedly some ground forces are being reduced by the Allies but not because of any new trust in Moscow's intentions. It is rather because the new guided missiles and atomic weapons make it possible to secure an even greater defense against attack with fewer troops than before.

Mr. Dulles has succinctly explained the situation — the Western Allies expect to take another look at the problem of how and where their armies shall be deployed and how big they shall be only when it is absolutely clear that the satellites have really gained their independence from Moscow.

MR. DULLES says that when Germany is reunified, when the satellites are truly free, when it is certain that Western Europe's own defenses are strengthened, there may be time to consider whether some changes in the number of troops stationed close to the satellite states should be made.

This may or may not be a long time ahead. But it's only another way of saying that, when the peoples of the satellite countries have gained their liberty, the people of the Soviet Union will be free, too.

Then and then only will the world begin to feel a sense of safety, and maybe armies can be reduced substantially.

The Allies are not talking boastfully about their prowess in guided missiles and other new weapons but they seem to have renewed confidence in their own strength and do not intend to barter it away with an agreement that wouldn't be worth the paper it is written on if made with a despotic government in Moscow.

Disfranchised Millions

By RAYMOND MOLEY

If by deliberate intent some state should enact legislation to disfranchise a million voters a hue and cry about tyranny and oppression would arise.

But the voting laws and regulations over the country, together with the incompetence of election officials, bar many millions from the polls even in a presidential election like the last one.

The American Heritage Foundation which in 1952 and again in 1956 did heroic service in urging Americans to vote estimates that in the November election 6 million were barred from voting because of moving across county or state lines, and another 2,600,000 were traveling on election day without having cast absentee ballots.

THERE WERE other hundreds of thousands who were barred because of difficulties of registration. And countless others were unable to vote because of incompetent election officials.

A man and his wife of my acquaintance who have always been keenly interested in politics tell of their own experience. Both of them registered and voted from their residences in New York. But no less than eight of their immediate relatives were unable to cast votes for reasons which were only in part their own negligence.

I have a letter from a reader which implores me not to blame "all of us who don't vote." She goes on to say that she wrote two months before election for an absentee ballot and since there was no reply wrote in succession four more letters.

Finally on election day a ballot was delivered to her in a hotel 3,000 miles away. She marked it and secured from the postman a promise that it would be postmarked within an hour. But she still doubts whether her vote was actually counted.

THERE ARE in fact five states

(Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Pennsylvania and South Carolina) which do not allow absentee voting by civilians.

New Mexico allows no voting by mail at all, even for soldiers. In many states members of the Armed Forces vote by absentee ballot only with great difficulty.

Twenty-one states lack laws which require employers to have time off to vote.

Registration difficulties place an undue burden on millions of voters. Only 10 states have full permanent registration while 34 have some partial form of it. New York, for example, enacted a law as recently as 1954 which permits counties to adopt permanent registration if they so desire.

Only last week New York City adopted the system, after tremendously vigorous pressure by the League of Women Voters.

Some of the arguments against permanent registration reveal not so much the legitimacy of the case against it as the hostility of the politicians who run the election machinery against any reduction of the number of jobs involved in annual registration.

In New York City election inspectors under the annual system have six days employment for registration.

THOSE SIX DAYS would be reduced to two under permanent registration. Those four days mean a lot to the district leaders. Indeed, they seem to mean a lot more than the millions of hours that annual registration costs the voters of the city.

Voting regulations for the most part were established many years ago when the public was incensed at the scandalous wholesale voting of the quick as well as the dead by political bosses. But what was a reform then has come to be a burden on the conscientious, as well as a source of political spoils for the machine.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Refugee Christmas Party

Terror had left the faces of this father and mother. Their babe in the mother's arms had, out of sheer weariness, ceased crying.

This had been no Yuletide night journey through peaceful fields of sheep and shepherds, but a flight through frightful nights and days of bloodshed where skies were lit by the fire of tanks and cannon.

BUT NOW SUDDENLY there was the wonderful quiet of the early dawn in a land new to the little family and the mother saw in the shadowy forms in the dimness figures that could have been shepherds and the Magi. She closed her eyes, saw the cattle and smelled frankincense and myrrh.

The terrible journey was over. Tyranny had been at her heels. But it seemed long, long ago, for now there were peace, good will and love, dimming the memory of a struggle across marshes, the climb over barbed-wired fences and the furtive passage across borders.

SHE WAS A LITTLE CONFUSED but knew there had been a night ride in an airplane with kindly people, and a star of Bethlehem in the form of a light flashing from a STATUE OF Liberty and an airport beacon.

Now this father, mother and babe were safe amid the perfume of spruce and hemlock and ruble. The child opened its eyes suddenly and perhaps heard bells tinkling somewhere and sensed reindeer drawing a sleigh driven by a jolly fat man.

The child clasped its hands and crooned in delight at whatever it saw or felt.

The father clasped the mother's hand, his grip tightening as both thought they heard clearly again the words, "And there were shepherds abiding in the fields, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them. And the angel said, 'Fear not.' And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, 'Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men.'"

A SOLDIER, who was no instrument of tyranny or oppression, smiled at the group and said, "Merry Christmas!"

Hostesses, Red Cross workers and others hurried about in tender solicitude. A general, who in the long dark night of terror, would have frightened the little family, threw open a door of a reception building and pressed a button which touched off a cannon. It lit a Christmas tree! A sergeant started a record of Irving Berlin's "White Christmas."

Somehow the Gospel according to St. Luke seemed very real again.

John the Baptist - Preparing the Way

Part 6

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the sixth in a series of eight studies of the birth and times of Christ. It concerns John the Baptist, a man seeing with tidings of the coming of the Lord.

By GEORGE CORNELL
(AP Newsfeatures)

Out of the desert he came. Out of the brooding rocks and sand. Out of the flaming sun he came striding with long strides, his eyes on fire and his shaggy mane a banner in the wind.

"Make ye ready the way of the Lord!"

From the wilderness west of the Dead Sea, John the Baptist came down to the Jordan's banks, wrapped in camel's pelt tied with leather thongs, bearing the secrets of long silence and the stars.

"There cometh after me," he proclaimed. "He that is mightier than I, the latchet of whose sandals I am not worthy to unloose. I baptize you with water but He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost."

SOME HEARD. Some closed their ears in scorn. They came and stood there, the tax-gouging publicans, the Roman soldiers, the wayward Herodian youths with their Greek manners, woven peploes and broad-brimmed hats.

"Repent!" he pleaded. Lay bare your own infirmities, and thus be whole. Open your eyes to man's frailty, and find strength. Face the weakness of the heart, and be made new and girded with truth.

"For He cometh in Whom all flesh shall know the salvation of God."

There on the river bank, this coarsely garbed desert prophet, dark of skin and lean from years of living on locusts and wild honey, first raised the standard for his younger cousin, Jesus.

From his solitary haunts, the Baptist came forth with passion and lancing words, with no awe for rank or station, roaring against the proud, the cheats, the selfish rich, the doers of violence.

IT WAS A REMOTE CRY, on the edge of a clangorous world, of muddled converging civilizations, of hodgepodge doctrines and beliefs, rent with discordant teachings and collapsing ideals.

Surely, unless men ceased from their cruelties and vainglories, they would be crushed by the inner weight of evil. But the Baptist saw succor and restoration in the One to come. Greatness was required.

Against it all, the Baptist rebelled, grieving at the millions in slavery, victims of war or debt, toiling in copper mines, ditches and households — about three to every citizen. Some wore iron balls.

The pagan tides of Greece, decadent for 30 years or more since Aristotle and the Odes of Pindar, invaded all the lands around, exalting the body and denying its kinship to the soul.

JOHN THE BAPTIST

Polygamy abounded in Judea and other lands. Men divorced their wives at will. Young girls, like Greeks, with marjoram on their hair and alkonet stain on their lips, danced nude in coastal cities.

In arenas near Jerusalem, animals screamed in massive slaughter to entertain the multitudes, and Herod kings made sport of swords and battleaxes.

PRINCES AND PRIESTS exacted their heavy tribute — a third of a farmer's grain, crown taxes, temple taxes, stores and cattle seized for war, levies for first fruits, gratitude and guilt, tithes and second tithes and many sacrifices.

At the temple, the noise of jostling crowds mingled with bawling cattle in their pens or on the slabs, the stench of smoke and burning fat, the cries of hawkers and money-changers.

Amid the rankling forces, Judaism, the olden beacon of the one God, was split into contending forces, floundering to preserve faith. The Baptist quit the din and clutter — left his priestly home behind.

He spurned the puffed-up Pharisees, their precise, formal fixing of the law. With their artful scribes they had gained ascendancy over the Sadducees, those wealthy allies of Rome who denied man's resurrection.

The legalistic Pharisees elaborated law until it was a hollow shell, naming 39 deeds as Sabbath work, declaring man must carry no burden on that day heavier than a fig. They used the lash and stonings.

In the uplands, Samaritans accepted Hebrew law, but not the prophets. The Nazarenes, dwelling east of the Jordan, rejected temple rites as binding. Fierce Zealots carried daggers and swore death to all disloyal Jews.

To the same realm of solitude as the Baptist went the Essenes — the bathers, who kept their scrolls of scripture, hymn books and manuals of strict discipline in caves beside the Dead Sea. They numbered about 4,000. They, too, spoke of a wondrous "Teacher of Righteousness."

SO IT WAS that the Baptist, born about six months before Jesus of an elderly priest, Zacharias, and Elizabeth, a cousin of Mary's, left his dotting parents early in life for the desert.

There in that place of sun and sand and silences, with the cadences of eternity in the wind and the stars caressing the very hills at night, he found his swift, straight voice.

When the time came, he stormed down from his fastness, a blazing harbinger of the new Kingdom.

The Baptist left his mark on many, for 20 years later, followers spoke of him in far-off Ephesus. But Herod Antipas, whom the Baptist dared to assail for an adulterous marriage, had him locked up in Machaerus fortress as an incendiary, and beheaded.

But the voice in the wilderness, that lonely cry on the border of a raucous, reeling world, had lit a new lamp, and lifted the veil on a light that leaped around the earth.

Man Slain As He Tries To Break Up Argument

CLEVELAND (AP)—A man was stabbed to death in front of his apartment Friday night when he tried to stop a noisy argument between a married couple, police said.

Eisenhower Give Gift Photographs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower, in a change from past Christmases, today gave each member of the White House staff twin pictures of themselves with an engraved autograph and greeting.

In the past, the Eisenhowers' Christmas present to White House employees has been a reproduction of an Eisenhower oil painting.

This year, the gift consists of a profile photograph of the President, smiling broadly, and a full-face picture of the first lady. Underneath is an inscription: "With best wishes for a happy holiday season."

Eisenhower signed his name beneath his portrait and Mrs. Eisenhower beneath her's. She wrote it out in full—Mamie Doud Eisenhower.

The gifts were distributed by the President and the First Lady in a traditional reception in the White House east room.

White House personnel—about 600 of them—filed by and were greeted with a handclasp by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Today's traditional White House ceremony followed Eisenhower's public wish Thursday night for a "truly merry Christmas to everyone throughout the world."

Consider Loans To Aid Needy Students

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several plans for furnishing loans to enable needy boys and girls to attend college are under study by the President's committee on education beyond the high school.

Elvis Stahr, the committee's staff director, said Friday one of the proposals would call for partial government guarantee of such loans obtained from banks or other financial institutions.

Under a second college loan plan, Stahr said, educational institutions would serve as lending agencies, with private foundations, industry associations and other nongovernmental sources sharing as guarantors.

Included in various proposals being studied by the group are several which would involve income tax relief for parents of college students.

The committee has been assigned the task of recommending ways to help qualified young people pay for higher education which they and their parents cannot finance by themselves.

Santa and the SECRET ROOM

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Little by little I turned to stone. But just as I thought I was gone forever I heard a great noise. I opened my eyes and I saw two golden fairies coming down the rainbow.

They were leading Calhoun McGillicuddy by the hand. On McGillicuddy's back was the sorcerer.

A moment later the elf dumped the sorcerer by the pot of gold. "There," he said. "It's all just as I promised you!"

The sorcerer looked at the gold. His eyes grew large. His face softened.

"Gold," he whispered. "Gold!" He was about to dip his hands into the pot but McGillicuddy said, "First the boy!"

"Oh, yes," said the sorcerer. He reached in his pocket and drew out a jar of cream. He rubbed a bit of it on my nose and instantly the feeling came back into my limbs and I was myself again.

Then the sorcerer dropped down by the pot and ran his hands through the gold. Tears ran down his cheeks. "I'm so happy," he sobbed. "Now I don't have to change people to gold. Here is all the gold I've ever wanted."

"YOU WILL BE the guardian of the gold," said a fairy. "But you can never leave here. If you try to cross the rainbow without our help you will sink in the golden mist."

"Leave?" cried the sorcerer. "Oh, please don't ever make me leave. I will be a good guardian. I swear it! And here," he added, turning to McGillicuddy, "Take this cream to your friends in the palace. And tell them to send to me if they ever have need of gold."

McGillicuddy took me by the hand. "Come, we must hurry," he said. "It is Christmas eve."

As we travelled I began to think about my seven brothers and seven sisters and how I'd worried them so. McGillicuddy must have known my mind because he said, "Alexander, I'm taking you home." He dropped me off at my own door and said goodbye. "Thank you," I said, "for everything."

I hung 15 stockings on the mantle

WHEN I WENT IN my house there was no one there. I went to the barn. It was empty. I was tired but there was one thing I had to do. I went back in the house and I hung fifteen stockings on the mantle over the kitchen chimney. Then I went back to the barn and dropped into the hay.

The next thing I knew my seven brothers and seven sisters were all about me.

"He's here! He's come home at last!" they cried.

"And, Alexander, you need not worry about the princess any more. She's been found," cried Amanda. "We've been in town looking for you everywhere. While we were there the palace suddenly lit up. Every window! And the king came out in the public square with him as Princess Anne. The king looked so happy! So you see it was all a bad dream you had about them after all."

I nodded and smiled to myself. "And one thing more," said Amanda. "Oh, I wish you could have seen it! You know the Christmas decoration on the palace roof? While we stood there Santa actually climbed in the sleigh and the reindeer pulled him away. Of course they did it with strings and magnets but truly, it looked just like real!"

After they'd all gone to bed I lay there in the dark and I thought, "Were all my adventures real? Or did they just look real?"

Suddenly I knew the answer. For there was the clear sound of jingling bells and through the loft window I saw a sleigh circling right over my own house.

My heart filled with joy because I could hear Santa calling, "Merry Christmas, Alexander! Merry Christmas to all!"

Public Lags In Gifts For Hungarian Relief

NEW YORK (AP) — Five public service organizations say the American public is lagging in contributions for relief to Hungarian refugees.

The groups said that the Red Cross and CARE, in particular, may be forced to curtail services needed elsewhere in the world to provide assistance to Hungarians fleeing into Austria.

Signers of the joint statement, issued Friday, were the American Red Cross, CARE, Church World Service, Catholic Relief Service and the United Jewish Appeal.

The Red Cross said it had already spent slightly more than the $2,564,757 it has collected toward its minimum goal of five million dollars, set at the outset of the Hungarian revolt.

CARE, with a goal of two million dollars, said it had spent $580,000 of the $608,000 collected.

Camera Uses 8,000 'Lenses' --

Prof. Ross Hutchins, of Mississippi State College at Starkville, made the unusual photograph at left, using a grasshopper's eye as a lens. Grasshoppers, like house flies, have eyes with multiple facets — 8,000 in the case of the 'hopper. Each is, in effect, a lens. Professor Hutchins believes that such insects have mental reflexes which resolve the many-imaged impression their eyes receive into a single, clear image similar to that seen by a human eye. Photo above shows grasshopper looking at sketch of girl. At left is what he sees.

on an uncertain note after Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld announced Israel planned a partial withdrawal by Jan. 10 — but that he could not say when all Israeli forces would be out of the Sinai.

A parade of Arab speakers demanded that Israel get out of Egyptian territory quickly, and accused Britain and France of "cohesion" with Israel in the invasion of Egypt.

The British government increased its estimate of Egyptian killed in the Port Said-Port Fuad invasion to 750. The Egyptian government has estimated that 2,000 Egyptians were killed.

The prisoner exchange at El Cap, on the cease-fire line 22 miles south of here, was under the direction of the U. N. Emergency Force.

A train carrying 472 British subjects from Cairo and another with 357 Egyptian soldiers and civilians from Port Said met at the cease-fire line. The Britons were employees of contractors and engineers who maintained the Suez Canal zone military installations after the British army withdrawal earlier this year that ended the British occupation begun in 1882.

LISBON — Lawrence Call, 41, of Hammondsville, who was sentenced Nov. 9, to 1 to 15 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary for violation of his probation after he pleaded guilty of robbing Pan-crowd reportedly listened in silence to the transfer proclamation. The deposed civilian governor, Ruslan Muljohardo, a Javanese whose presence was said to be resented by the people, was described as tense and nervous.

But he signed the proclamation without emotion, the radio added. In a later speech, the ousted governor said he earnestly hoped the new army government would overcome Sumatra's present crisis.

Little light on the Sumatran situation could be obtained from top government leaders in Jakarta. Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo made the brief comment: "If the report is true, the situation is indeed critical."

The premier had a 70-minute talk with President Sukarno. Sastroamidjojo also met with the army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Abdul Harris Nasution, and with Atty. Gen. Suprpto.

There have been recurrent reports of an impending army move in a speech to "keep out of political troubles worsened. Only this week Sukarno warned the military in a speech to "keep out of politics."

Last month Nasution charged that Col. Zulkifli Lubis, former deputy chief of staff, had "organized a coup d'etat to overthrow the government and changed the basic philosophy of the Indonesian state." At that time 10 senior officers were reported arrested in what informants said was a power struggle between factions headed by Nasution and Lubis. Lubis disappeared before a scheduled hearing.

Spiraling inflation which has gripping the whole country has had special significance for Sumatra. One of the main disputes between the island and the central government is that Sumatra produces 30 per cent of Indonesia's wealth but gets back only 7 per cent. Sumatra is second in size only to Borneo, part of which is a British crown colony, and has a population of about 12 million persons.

Radio reports from Sumatra claimed Ahmed Hussein, a 35-year-old former guerrilla in central Sumatra, actually led the bloodless coup. He is called "the tiger of central Sumatra."

A stocky, clean-shaven man, Hussein headed guerrillas during the campaign which led eventually to Indonesian independence from the Netherlands.

John claimed a Berlin physician, Dr. Wolfgang Drogenmuth, gave him drugged coffee and then spirited him off to East Berlin. He testified he woke up 24 hours later in a room at Soviet headquarters.

Wohlgemuth, now living in the Communist zone, declined an invitation to testify at John's trial.

John's job in West Germany corresponded to the position in the United States of director of the FBI. He was a member of the anti-Nazi underground in World War II and made a dramatic flight to Britain after the abortive attempt to assassinate Adolf Hitler.

The Assembly approved over Soviet bloc objections an appropriation of the first 10 million dollars to pay for the U. N. emergency force. The vote was 62-8 with 7 abstentions.

The money will be raised by assessment of U. N. members in accord with the scale used for raising the annual budget. Under this arrangement the United States will put up one third of the total.

THE SEARCH FOR BRIDEY MURPHY

Wacky Robber Leaves Three Clues Behind

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (P) — The wacky robber with the disgusting disguise left behind three clues Friday night—a hair net, two shattered pickle jars and a six-foot length of iron pipe.

Police set out on his trail armed with a bizarre description of the robber from his victim, Vincent Panzarella, 57, owner of the Prospect Beverage store.

Panzarella said he was sure the robber was a stocky, teen-aged boy, but he was dressed in a yellow sweater which revealed a brassiere beneath and a skirt that didn't quite cover bright red pantaloons.

His face, remarkable for a gigantic nose, was painted with makeup and his lips smeared with lipstick. He wore earrings and carried a red handbag.

Panzarella said the robber pulled a pistol from his handbag and forced him; his son, Joseph, 29, and a customer to go behind a counter while he scooped $289 from a cash register.

The robber's pistol accidentally discharged, shattering two pickle jars on the counter. He backed out the door, dropping a hair net on the sidewalk, and fled in an unmarked pickup truck.

As the truck sped away, a six-foot length of iron pipe tumbled from it onto the street.

Tumbleweed, a prairie pest, was introduced to the United States from Russia in flax seed imported about 1875.

Free Pair Convicted Of Abortion Death

PHILADELPHIA (P)—Milton and Rosalie Schwartz were free today after serving all but five months of their sentence for the abortion death of food chain heiress Mrs. Doris Jean Ostreicher.

Judge Vincent A. Carroll paroled the couple Friday after the district attorney's office offered no objection.

Schwartz, 50, and his wife, who is 39, had been sentenced to 11 to 22 months for Mrs. Ostreicher's death in their north Philadelphia apartment in August 1955.

Judge Carroll said he was swayed by a "genuine and honest letter" from the couple's son, Milton, a Los Angeles resident, requesting his parents' release.

South Carolina Raps Georgia, Kentucky Trims Mustangs

Wallace Bags 54 Points

Illinois Defeats Dayton 82-65

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Real quick now, who has scored the most points in a single major college basketball game this season?

Wilt the Stilt? Nope. It's South Carolina's Grady Wallace, a "dinky" 6-4 guy who had the time of his life in a two-night trip through Georgia.

Wallace, a senior forward from Mare Creek, Ky., bagged 54 points Friday night as the Gamecocks rapped Georgia 96-81. He had scored 37 in a 90-83 decision over Georgia Tech Thursday night and his 54 topped the previous season high set by Wilt Chamberlain with 52 against Northwestern in top-ranked Kansas' schedule opener.

Wallace's show was easily the best individual performance Friday, but there were many outstanding team jobs, headed by Kentucky's 21-7 star that overhauled previously unbeaten Southern Methodist in the final 10½ minutes to trim the fourth-ranked Mustangs 73-67.

The victory gave seventh-ranked Kentucky a 5-2 record and sent the Wildcats against unbeaten Illinois tonight in the championship game of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament. The Illini, rated No. 5 in this week's Associated Press poll, ousted defending champ Dayton 82-65 in the opening game of the first "class" tourney of the season.

Elsewhere among the ranked powers, North Carolina, No. 3, made it 7-0 with an 89-61 decision over Dartmouth as Len Rosenbluth canned 30 points for an all-time Tarheel scoring record of 1,333 points. And San Francisco, rated No. 2 off its 60-game winning streak which was officially ended by Illinois Monday, stopped a three-game slump with a 56-33 victory over little Washington of St. Louis.

In the Cincinnati Invitational, Connie Dierking, a 6-9 center, scored 26 points as Cincinnati beat George Washington 88-68. Cincy now meets Fordham, which swamped Miami (Ohio) 67-60 on a second half drive and Jim Cunningham's 31 points, for the title tonight.

Colorado remained unbeaten with a 65-53 victory over Washington, but Missouri, another Big Seven member, was clipped 77-54 by UCLA. Harvard was handed its first defeat 66-60 by Northeastern, which hadn't won before. Wyoming also claimed its first victory, trimming Omaha 68-65.

Brigham Young whipped Bowling Green 73-56; Southern California defeated Los Angeles Loyola 60-59; and West Virginia Tech won the Parris Island (SC) Christmas Tournament with a 115-88 job on Erskine.

Beavers Hold Stiff Practice Scrimmages

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Oregon State College's workouts for the Rose Bowl game against Iowa are in full swing and the Beavers, under the watchful eye of coach Tommy Prothro, are beginning to look like the hardest working team ever to play in the Jan. 1 contest.

Prothro is driving his players hard in twice-a-day scrimmages. Three players have been cracked up by the hard going, all of them reserves. But apparently the OSC coaching staff wants to get the players razor sharp. Oregon State has two drills scheduled today and two Sunday.

The all-out effort was a change of Prothro's announced plans. Only a day ago he pleaded that a lack of reserve strength would force him to avoid heavy workouts. Iowa will skip Sunday drills over in East Los Angeles. Coach Forest Evashevski says he has been holding controlled scrimmages and would like to have one all-out, "but to tell the truth, we aren't ready for that kind just yet and I don't want to risk injuries."

Souders, Electric Furnace, Petrucci's Win Cage Tilts

Class B dominated the city league basketball play Friday night as Electric Furnace smashed Salem Tool 54-33, Gordon Scott Sports was trounced by Souders Engineering 72-29, and Petrucci's edged John's Pennzill 44-42.

The Furnace five jumped to an early first-quarter lead 22-10, but in

Colts' Owner Allows Men To Study Union

BALTIMORE — Carroll Rosenbloom, one of the more liberal-minded of the club owners in the National Football League, has up-held the players' rights to discuss a union in New York, Dec. 28-30.

Bosenbloom, principal owner of the Colts, Friday approved his team's plan to send veteran Bill Pellington to the meeting as its representative.

"I have never been one to hesitate when I could better myself," he said. "If they think joining a players' union will help them then they should join it."

Greikington Miller, Cleveland attorney and former Notre Dame halfback, has called the meeting. He would organize the NFL players into a union patterned after the professional baseball group.

Rosenbloom's acceptance of the Colts' decision is in direct contrast to that of George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins. He labeled the idea "the most ridiculous thing I have ever heard. It doesn't make any sense."

It Was Flying, But It Wasn't A Duck

MANTEO, N.C. — It didn't look like a duck, but it was flying, and that was good enough for a Connecticut Yankee down South for a little shooting.

Charles A. Newton, Meriden, Conn., was on target Friday when he fired from a duck blind in nearby Pamlico Sound. What he begged was a fivepound roe mullet — mighty fine eating, if you like fish.

Newton and Charles Parker, also of Meriden, were hunting as guests of industrialist Stanley Wahab, Ocala, N.C. They had a bag of five geese and five ducks before unseasonably warm weather started the mullets jumping from the water.

Tulsa Signs Coach To 5-Year Contract

TULSA, Okla. — The University of Tulsa expressed satisfaction in its football fortunes under head coach Bobby Dobbs by signing the youthful mentor to a five-year contract Friday.

Last season, his second as Tulsa coach, Dobbs piloted the Golden Hurricane to seven victories, two defeats and a tie, good for a second place tie in the Missouri Valley Conference. The team had a 2-7-1 record in Dobbs' first season. No salary figures were disclosed under the contract.

TAVERN OWNER SUE

LISBON — A suit for $5,000 for dog bite injuries was filed in Common Pleas Court Friday by Gene Underwood of the Glasgow-Ohioville Road.

Gale Combs, proprietor of Apples Corners Tavern at the junction of Rts. 30 and 267 about seven miles northwest of East Liverpool, was named the defendant.

Underwood claims in his petition that on Nov. 22, as he attempted to enter the defendant's tavern, he was bitten in the leg by the defendant's dog.

Cards Angered By Bell's Ruling They Can't Criticize Officials

CHICAGO (P)—The Chicago Cardinals were doing a slow burn today but they said they will abide by Commissioner Bert Bell's ruling forbidding them from criticizing the officiating in their 10-3 loss to the Chicago Bears.

The Cardinals were prepared to run films of the Dec. 9 game on

N. Waterford Roars Over Millvale

New Waterford roared over Millvale 67-53 Friday night in a cage game played at New Waterford. Millvale assumed a first quarter 16-12 lead but fell behind the eventual winners 35-20 by the end of the half. The score at the three-quarter mark was 51-34.

New Waterford's cagers did not score for the first three and one-half minutes of the game.

DeWayne Brown was high scorer for the Trojans, netting 13 goals and three fouls for a total of 29 points. Reenert paced the losers with 19 markers.

The New Waterford reserves won the preliminary tilt of the evening 46-31.

The Trojans' next game will be played Jan. 2 against their alumni.

Sunday To Be Key Day For Colt Coach

BALTIMORE — The coaching future of Baltimore's Webb Ewbank will be hanging in the balance when the Colts entertain the Washington Redskins Sunday in the final game of the National Football League season.

The game has no bearing on the league championship, which will be decided in New York Dec. 30, with the Giants playing the Chicago Bears.

But with Ewbank reportedly in a precarious position and with the Redskins needing a victory to earn a share of second place money in the Eastern Conference, the "neighborhood" rivals should provide lots of action for the largest television network in the league's history.

The Colts have a 4-7 record in the Western Conference and there have been reports Ewbank is on his way out. Carroll Rosenbloom, principal owner of the Colts, has promised to announce his decision about next year's coach after the season ends.

Washington needs a victory to tie the Chicago Cardinals for second place and a share of runnerup money.

The game will be televised nationally (CBS) over 188 stations, beginning at 1 p.m. (CST). The game was originally scheduled for mid-season, but was postponed because it violated a Naval Academy contract with the Baltimore Park Board which said no game could be played in Memorial Stadium the day following a Navy game.

Aragon, Goldstein Suspended Nationally

PATTERSON, N. J. — The National Boxing Assn. says it will back Texas and California in their investigation of the alleged Texas fight fix attempt and will suspend the two fighters involved for the same length of time that Texas has done.

N B A Commissioner Abe J. Greene said Friday that the NBA would hand out 30-day to three month suspensions to Art Aragon and Dick Goldstein, California welterweights.

The pair were scheduled to fight in San Antonio but Aragon said he was sick. Goldstein alleged his opponent offered him money to lose the bout.

He said that the national suspension was to be made pending the outcome of a more complete investigation.

Goshen Ekes Lisbon 51-49 Win Over

Goshen's Gophers won their fifth basketball game out of six starts this season as they defeated the Lisbon Blue Devils 51-49 in a game played on Lisbon's floor.

Goshen led all the way. The Gophers took an early lead of 15-3, and were ahead of the Blue Devils 24-21 at intermission. Goshen erupted with a 16-point outburst in the third period, increasing its total to 40 points against the Blue Devils' 33.

Roger Wyss tallied eight baskets and two fouls for 18 points for the winners, and the Blue Devils' George Ramsey hit for 10 baskets and five fouls for 25 points.

Goshen hit on 23 of 48 field goal attempts for a high 47.9 percent, but netted only five of 18 foul shots for a 27.7 average.

The Goshen reserves also defeated the Lisbon reserves 47-43.

Lisbon will play Old Fort at home Dec. 28, and Goshen will meet the Leetonia Bears at Leetonia tonight.

Malvern Beaten 33-19 By Fairfield

Fairfield defeated Malvern Friday night 33-19 in a game played on Malvern's home floor.

In the first quarter the two teams played even all the way and when the buzzer sounded, the score was tied 10-10. In the second period Fairfield tallied four points and Malvern scored nothing, and at the half Fairfield led 14-10.

In the third stanza Fairfield pulled ahead to stay and led going into the final period 24-15. Paul Esenwein and Charles Miner tallied 11 and 10 points, respectively, for the winners, and Ronald Romano scored eight points for the losers.

Malvern won the reserve game over Fairfield 31-22.

Power In White Sox System Again In Hands Of A Woman

CHICAGO (P)—The balance of power in the Chicago White Sox baseball system will remain in the hands of a woman.

According to Mrs. Grace Comiskey's will, filed in Probate Court Friday, control of the team goes to a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy C.

Rigney, secretary treasurer of the organization.

Mrs. Comiskey, president of the club since 1941, died Dec. 10 and named Mrs. Rigney executor of the will. By virtue of a specific bequest, Mrs. Rigney received 500 shares of stock.

The rest of Mrs. Comiskey's 3,652 shares were divided equally between Charles, an only son, and Mrs. Rigney.

When the 31-year-old Charles becomes 35, he will hold 3,475 shares while his sister now has 3,975 of the 7,540 total.

Comiskey and his brother-in-law, John Rigney, are vice presidents of the team. Dorothy and Chuck, out of deference to their mother's memory, will keep the club presidency vacant for at least one year.

It was announced that Comiskey and Rigney will run the club under joint direction.

Mrs. Comiskey became president of the White Sox following a court battle after the death of her husband, Louis, in 1939.

She and Charles had several squabbles in the last five years. In 1952, she accepted his resignation in a tiff over salary and prestige.

After a brief career as a radio executive, Chuck returned as vice president in 1954 and his salary was doubled at his mother's suggestion.

The Clippers' next game will be at home Jan. 4 against Canfield.

East Squad To Hold Secret Practices

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—Terry Brennan, the Notre Dame coach who has charge of the East squad for the Dec. 29 Shrine football game, says he will padlock gates next week for secret practices.

The team will go off the two-practices-a-day standard Sunday. "I'm satisfied with the progress of the boys," Brennan said.

Paul Hornung, Notre Dame quarterback on the East squad, said he had been contacted Friday by a representative of the Vancouver club of the Canadian Football League. He said he had not signed anything.

The West team also planned secret sessions, after Sunday morning's practice.

"We have a thing or two we want to put in without everyone in the world knowing what they are," said coach Buck Shaw.

Shaw said he gave the squad a talk about "pride" in the assignment following the early hours auto accident of backfield stars John Brodie and Jon Arnett. Neither was hurt.

The incident Friday should have a "sobering effect" on the entire squad, Shaw said.

Three Children Die When Trailer Burns

BLACK CREEK, Wis. (AP)—Twin brothers Harold and Gerry Gruetzmacher, age 2, who were born blind, and their three-month-old sister, perished Thursday when flames swept the house trailer in which they were alone. The charred bodies of the boys were found in the ruins.

Their sister, Jo Ann, died several hours at a hospital.

The mother, Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacher, who pulled her daughter from the fire but was unable to reach the boys, was treated for minor burns.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps quoted her as saying she went to talk to Mrs. Donald Schwister, on whose farm the trailer was parked.

The mother said she visited with Mrs. Schwister about 15 minutes and when she came out discovered the trailer in flames.
